SENTENCE COURT IN SESSION; DIAMOND ROBBERS GO TO PEN.

Thomas Malone, Ed. Howard, Frank Marks and William Myers Get a Salty Dose of Justice.

JOHN COLLINS NOT SENTENCED.

Via Attorney Was Not Able to Be Present, Hence This Postponement. Minor Offenders Are Sent to Prison, Workhouse, Jail or Reformatory.

UNIONTOWN, June 21.—A short session of sentence court was held this morning at which several prisoners convicted at the recent quarter session term of court, together with those who pleaded guilty, learned their fate. The most important sentences disposed of were those of Ed. Howard, William Myers, Thomas Malone and Frank Marks, the four men who pleaded guilty to being implicated in the robbery of A. B. Kurtz's jewelry store in Connellville last month.

Attorney W. E. Crow appeared for the defendants and made an eloquent plea for leniency. He read a letter from a New York physician in which Howard is said to have consumption and imprisonment would probably be fatal. He also asked for leniency because only two of the men had entered the store. District Attorney Hudson read the criminal records of some of the men, but Crow said this didn't have anything to do with the present case.

After hearing the arguments and making a brief speech, Judge Unbel sentenced Howard to two years in the penitentiary; Myers a year and 10 months; Malone a year and 11 months; and Marks two years and four months.

The sentence of John J. Collins, convicted of second degree murder, was held over, owing to the inability of his attorney to be present.

John Gallagher, convicted of the robbery of George Mullin in Uniontown, was sent to the penitentiary for two years. James Yancey, convicted of assault and battery, will spend 60 days in the workhouse.

Andy Sivko, Sr., and Mike Koryn, two Everson foreigners found guilty of receiving stolen goods belonging to the Pennsylvania railroad, were given 10 months each to the workhouse.

Neil Perkins, who swiped copper wire from various places in the Klenkville region, will think it over while spending six months in the workhouse.

Neil Hanna and John Tucker, who held a slay up in Uniontown, were given a year each in the workhouse.

Kent Smith, convicted of rape and malicious mischief, was sent to the Huntingdon reformatory.

John Payne and Ernest Jackson, two Dunbar negroes convicted of chicken stealing, were sentenced six months to jail each. Payne said Jackson did the stealing and Jackson blamed it on Payne.

Charles Lipscomb got three years, to the penitentiary for perjury. He swore that he never got a hearing in Brownsville when charged with carrying concealed weapons.

O. P. Austin will spend 30 days in the county jail for furnishing liquor to a minor. Henry Dickinson, colored, goes to jail nine months for carrying a gun.

Nancy Stillwagon of Connellville will board at Sheriff Kiefer's hotel the next nine months for bigamy. She married a second man with her first husband still living and unmarried.

George Jenuk violated the game laws and was fined $55 and costs.

Alva Lee, a sailor, was prosecuted some weeks ago, but the informant failed to appear. Lee has $37. Sheriff Kiefer was directed to take this money, buy a ticket to Philadelphia with part of it and apply the balance to the costs of the case.

Proprietor James McGloin of the Young House, Connellville, was granted the privilege to close his hotel for six weeks, during which time extensive repairs will be made.

In the case of Ella N. Horwick against the Borough of Connellville, which was a suit over the change of grade on Pittsburg street, that town, the court directed that judgment in favor of the defendant be entered on points of law reserved.

In the case of Mary A. Sipe and others against John Snyder, the court directed that a new trial be granted unless the plaintiffs, within the next 10 days, remit all of the verdict given them over $5. This was a dispute over a Springfield township stone quarry and the plaintiffs were awarded $25.

Judge Unbel dismissed the petition in the contested election case from Fairchance, William F. Nixon contesting the seat of William Kensing in Town Council. The court said that while F. R. DeStrothers might have voted for Kensing, it has evidence that another man voted illegally for Nixon, so the status of the case was not changed.

The old slander suit from Connellville of James Richard against A. B. Norton has been finally set at rest. The court made absolute the rule to show cause why the proceedings should not be dismissed.

Upon petition of Attorney John S. Christy, A. Overholt & Company have been granted the right to sell some whisky, the bonded term of which has expired.

THROWN FROM BUGGY.

Hugh Coll Very Painfully Injured In Accident on East Main Street Last Evening.

Hugh Coll, Superintendent of the water system of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, was very painfully injured in an accident on Mountain alley last evening about 7:30 o'clock. He was driving his horse and buggy out of Stillwagon's livery stable on Mountain alley when the front wheel caught on another buggy in the alley. It tipped the buggy and the horse, ordinarily a quiet animal, started quickly.

When the buggy righted again it struck a wagon, also standing in the alley, and Mr. Coll fell in trying to jump from the buggy. His foot caught either in the spring or lines and he was dragged fifty or sixty feet. He was picked up unconscious and carried to Berryhill's drug store, where Dr. T. B. Echar and his son, Dr. H. J. Coll, attended him. Later he was removed to his home on West Cedar avenue.

Rosa Lytle caught the horse just as it crossed Main street. Mr. Coll has a severe cut on the side of his head and one on his leg. He is also badly bruised about the legs and body. Unless complications arise he will be out of bed and around in a few days.

AFTERNOON TEA.

Given by Mrs. Henry Province Snyder Yesterday Afternoon—A Handsomely Appointed Affair.

Handsomely appointed in every detail was an afternoon tea given yesterday by Mrs. Henry Province Snyder at her home on East Fairview avenue as the coming out function of Miss Jean R. Snyder. In the receiving line were the hostess, Miss Jean R. Snyder, Miss Alice Vandergriff, Miss G. and Mrs. Alice Kitha McIntyre of McKeesport. The aides were Miss Anne White, Miss Edith Davidson, Miss Eleanor Hugus and Miss Dora Johnston of Bala, Mont.

Red was the color scheme in the decorations. The parlor where the receiving party were stationed was fragrant with Richmond roses and lilacs of the valley. Bankings of tall ferns and palms added a charm to the decorations. The chandeliers were entwined with plumes and the lights were softened with red shades. Kiefer's orchestra stationed at the hall furnished the music. Refreshments were served throughout the afternoon. Over 125 guests were in attendance.

STRIKE DECLARED

By Head of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union on the Pacific Coast.

Publishers' Press Telegram. CHICAGO, June 21.—The strike of the telegraph operators it was announced early this morning, will begin at one o'clock this afternoon at San Francisco and Oakland, on a demand for a 25 per cent. increase of wages. President Small of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America refuses to abide by the decision yesterday in New York to call off the strike. Small declares it makes no difference what the East may do, the union must be recognized.

"We shall declare strikes in various cities and carry on guerrilla warfare until our demands are acceded to or until we can bring the matter to the attention of the next Congress," President Small said this morning.

The parents hurried to the creek and found the body. The younger boy watched his older brother swimming, and when he did not come up, he thought the other would come up again.

DRUNKS IN COURT.

Burgess Session Disposed of Five Unruly Characters at This Morning's Session.

Common drunks appeared in police court for sentence this morning. There were five of them and all got the usual sentence. Burgess A. D. Sotson hands out in such cases. Willis Echar was very uncomprehendingly drunk at the morning session of Mrs. Gillespie on Peach street, and as a consequence he was brought to the lockup by Officer Howard Anderson. He was so drunk that Anderson noted on the docket that it will take about 10 days to get him sober again. Following this recommendation Burgess Sotson directed that he be held indefinitely. This means an indefinite stay.

John Donach was both drunk and in disgrace, for which he will languish behind the bars in the borough until for the next 72 hours. John claims Broad Ford as his home.

Patrick Dunn, who accuses Pittsburg of being his native health, was arrested by Officer John Lowe, sons of with booze. Patrick will take the next 48 hours awaiting the alcoholic spirits from his prison.

James O'Connell, also of Pittsburg, although any place his hat is home is home to him, was not only drunk but disorderly as well. He was given 72 hours for this misdemeanor.

GETS JACOBSON.

Report from Butler Says That Manager Malarkey Has Signed the Clever Outfielder.

It has been reported from Butler that E. A. Jacobson, manager and captain of the Butler team, has been signed to Connellville. Local ball men decline to either confirm or deny the story. There has been a deal on for the purchase of this player, however, and according to the Butler papers it has been consummated. Connellville is badly in need of another good outfielder. Right field is the weak spot of the team at present, and with that position acceptably filled the team will be much stronger.

Jacobson is one of the best players on the Butler team. Under his management the team has maintained the lead in the league. He is a good fielder and hits well.

According to the same Butler paper, Harkins was also to come to Connellville, but Nick Gazatos, the team owner, denies this. Harkins is the best pitcher in the West Penn League. Of the 11 games he has pitched 10 were victories.

Manager Malarkey this morning stated that negotiations were on for Jacobson's transfer, but declined to say whether or not it had gone through.

JURY WAS OUT WHOLE DAY.

Element of Drunkenness Was Stumbling Block to An Early Agreement. Attorneys and Those Who Heard Case Were Not Surprised at Verdict.

UNIONTOWN, June 21.—William L. Cate at 8:15 last evening was convicted of murder in the first degree for the killing of Chief of Police Thomas L. Guess at Bellevernon several weeks ago. The jury was out practically all day. Late in the afternoon the jury sent word that they wanted further instructions from the court. Judge Reppert was on the bench at 7:30 to receive them. The element of drunkenness had entered into the jury's deliberations and it was on this point that some members wanted to be set straight. In less than half an hour a verdict of first degree murder was returned. Cate took the verdict coolly. He remarked that it was pretty tough after he had been led back to his cell in jail. When word was sent out that the jury had agreed Cate was brought over from the jail by Sheriff M. A. Kiefer. He was then laboring under great excitement, and when the foreman said "murder in the first degree," Cate seemed to relax.

There was not much surprise expressed at the verdict by the attorneys and others who heard it. Nearly all were unanimous that a first degree verdict would be rendered on the evidence submitted. Some doubt was expressed when the defense brought in the plea of insanity and drunkenness, and a few pressed the contention that second degree murder would be the verdict.

In his opening remarks Judge Reppert in his charge stated that one of four possible verdicts might be returned, first degree murder, second degree murder, manslaughter or acquittal. Some time was taken in an explanation of what constituted malice in law since this is the distinguishing feature of first degree and results largely from a depravity of mind and specific intent to take life. The fact that Cate seemed to have been intoxicated and insane at the time of the killing was referred to, as were also the injuries which he received in Tennessee a few years ago and from which he claimed to have been mentally affected at times. It was very largely on account of these spells that he resigned his position on the police force in Bellevernon last October, as he said. However, the court reminded the jury that although he resigned at Bellevernon on this account, he a little later accepted a position with the street railway company as special officer and then worked on the Monessen police force until about the middle of March. The charge was considered entirely fair.

In his address to the jury District Attorney Hudson tried to explode the theory of insanity sprung by the defense. Mr. Hudson reminded the jury that he had called more than a score of Bellevernon citizens who had more or less business dealings and conversation with Cate while he was on the police force and that none of them ever had occasion to suspect that there was anything mentally wrong with the man.

SEPTEMBER CASES.

There Will Be Several Murder Cases on the Docket.

County Detective Meloth has left a bunch of informations at the office of the Prothonotary at Uniontown to be entered for the September term of court. Among the number is that against John Kelly, charging him with the murder of Mary Horitsko at Saw Junction on the morning of June 8, while they were returning from a Slush wedding and carousal. It is said that the shooting was not intentional, the defendant simply discharging his weapon promiscuously. A further information is against Mrs. Lotie Snyder of Lower Tyrone township, whose mind is said to be affected. The charge against her is surety of the peace. Some days ago she gathered up a hatchet and made things rather lively for some of the neighbor women for a time. It is alleged that she not only tried to kill them but threatened to do so later, and as a consequence they are afraid of her.

Will Elect Principals.

A special meeting of the Dunbar Township School Board will be held this evening at the Hotel Columbia in New Haven to elect principals for the ensuing term.

EARLE'S BOYS WINNER

Of a Fine Ball Game With
Locals at Scottdale
Yesterday.

WAS EXCITING TO THE FINISH.

Connellsville Tied the Score in the Ninth, But Scottdale Turned in Then and Won in Their Half With Two Men Out.

SCOTSDALE, June 21.—Connellsville dropped an exciting game to Scottdale yesterday afternoon in the last half of the ninth inning when, with two men on bases, Pitcher Humphries won his own contest with a timely single. That was a game long to be remembered. Both teams played in fine form and there is no kick coming either way. The final score was 4 to 3. Both teams got hits at the right time, but Scottdale had the last chance and took advantage of it.

Not for several weeks has the ginger worked so well in the Connellsville team. Every player was on his toes and did great work. Both the in and outfields did excellent work. Jacquot was in the box for the visitors and allowed but six hits. These came at opportune times, however.

In the third inning Connellsville took a lead of two runs. Twin opened with a little hit that White couldn't handle, went to second on a wild pitch and travelled to third on Jacquot's out. O'Hara then lined one to short, but Twin was nipped at the plate. O'Hara went to second on Ambsry's single, while Elham caught one in the slats, filling the bases. With the bases full and none out Tiffany lined a long fly to right. Duckette made a good attempt, got the ball in his hands, but dropped it. O'Hara and Ambsry scored. Tiffany got two bases on the hit. Moran fanned, which ended the scoring.

In the sixth Scottdale made a tally on Ball's two batters and Welty's single. Two more tallies came in the next inning. Elham juggled White's grounder and then Washer bunted to Jacquot. Umpire Hoffman was in the way and Dick made a bad throw to Laird at second, everybody getting safe. Miller sacrificed and was nipped at first, but Duckette's single scored White and Washer.

With the score 3 to 2 in the ninth in Scottdale's favor, Tiffany drew a pass. Pat Moran went out trying to sacrifice Tif to second, bunting the third strike foul. Birmingham's single sent Tif to second and a single by Francis, who supplanted Twin in right, scored the local first sacker. Maybe the Connellsville fans didn't shout when the score was tied.

It looked like extra innings when Scottdale came to bat in the last of the ninth. Washer and Miller were easy outs, but Jacquot let down, hitting Duckette and giving Benson a pass. With two on bases and two out, Humphries sent a single into right field, Duckette scoring the winning run. Following is the score:

Connellsville	AB	R	H	E
Ball, 3	1	1	1	2

Notes of the Game.

That's the way to play ball. Defeats like that do not sting.

Well, we worked hard to get it, but Scottdale had all the luck.

Hard luck, Jacquot.

That boy pitched a pretty game throughout and deserved to win.

Maybe those Scottdale fans aren't loyal.

Chief of Police Frank McCudden was on the job in addition to rooting loyally for the Mill Town boys. He escorted two Connellsville fans from the grandstand who talked about betting.

Billy Barle's coaching would make Hugh Jennings look cheap. Billy is the original enthusiast to put ginger in a team.

Welty hit the ball to good advantage, likewise Duckette.

Both pitchers started things on runs scored. Connellsville tied the score with a man Humphries passed while the winning run for Scottdale was brought in by one who was hit by Jacquot.

The infield worked nice. Tifany on first, Laird at second, Elham holding down short and Birmingham at third is a good combination.

Ambsry played a pretty game in middle field. He had three chances and got two singles.

Mrs. William M. Earle is happy. Yesterday was her last game. She goes to Philadelphia today and will sail for Europe Saturday in company with Mr. Barle's sister. She wanted Scottdale to win that game.

A. Strunk, C. Patterson, J. W. Buttermore, Frank K. Daly, Antonio Bufano, Cliff McCollough, Martin King, Edward White, Carl Fisher, H. M. Keppart, S. K. Reed, Capt. E. A. Crow, W. C. Bishop and a good many other rooters were over.

Elmer Tims is on the sick list. He may be in shape to work against Clarksburg tomorrow, however.

Ambsry got in with a couple of hits. Tiffany had 15 putouts on first base.

Some of his catches were sensational. Hoffman umpired a good game.

Kicks on his decisions were few and far between.

Danny Hart left last night for Catasqua where he will play second base on the same team Johnny Woodruff is playing for.

Pitcher Fenwick of the Cumberland team has joined Connellsville. Cumberland is getting a bunch of new men.

Benson played his first game at short for Scottdale yesterday. He had three assists to his credit.

Bobby Ball, the only Scottdale boy on the Earle bunch, plays a nice game at third. He smashed out a nice two bagger yesterday.

Humphries is Scottdale's star pitcher. The fans bow down to him in the Mill Town.

If Connellsville had as good a diamond as Scottdale there would be better baseball at M. & S. park.

Well we get this one today. Clarksburg is due for a beating and it comes this afternoon. Stick a pin in this.

Joe Twin has a good throwing arm. He appears to be a place hitter.

He stands about the middle of the batter's box, some fans think too far from the plate. However, Joe appears to have a good eye and measures the distance nicely. All the fans want to see him play a whole game through.

Hoffman is the best umpire that has appeared in this end of the League.

Elham got a hard chance at third and threw the runner out at first. It was pretty work.

Tiffany made a great one hand catch of a throw from Jacquot. He got the runner by a few inches.

The Uniontown Herald says Denny O'Hara has made good forty ways for Connellsville, and so he has.

The team looks stronger than it has this season.

Watch the boys in action today. They played a winning game yesterday.

VANDERBILT.

Personal Chat From the New Borough Down the Yough.

VANDERBILT, June 20.—Samuel E. Porter, the druggist, lost a young colt yesterday in a very short time. He had brought it here from his farm in Lower Tyrone township and Oda Gray was breaking the same in. He was riding one of the colts and leading the other, when all at once it reared on its hind legs and fell backward, breaking its neck. Death was instantaneous.

Benjamin Berg, Superintendent of the Tri-State Telephone Company, was transacting business here yesterday morning.

Charles W. Barry, the saddler, was in Pittsburg yesterday looking after business matters.

H. L. Carpenter of Connellsville was a business caller here Wednesday.

Miss Maud Lint of East Liberty was in New Haven Wednesday evening calling on Mr. and Mrs. Sample Cochran.

Two foreigners were up before Justice of the Peace R. E. McLaughlin Tuesday, charged with disorderly conduct outside of the borough limits. Upon the payment of fine and costs they were discharged. The men were placed under arrest by Constable Jacob Harshman.

Enos Pratt of Mt. Braddock, special officer for the W. J. Rahney estate, was transacting business matters at this place yesterday.

The School Directors met at the school house Wednesday evening for the purpose of electing a principal for the ensuing term, but owing to the absence of J. B. Henderson no meeting was held, as it requires the presence of all Directors to elect teachers. They meet tonight, when they will endeavor to select one.

Rev. M. M. Hildebrand, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will preach a special sermon to the Knights of Malta Sunday evening next. Music will be furnished by a male quartette, who are members of the organization. To the services a cordial invitation is given all to attend.

Constable A. C. Duncan of Dunbar was in town yesterday looking after matters of a legal nature.

F. E. Ogilvie, the druggist, was in Pittsburg Wednesday laying in a supply of goods.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Blackstone of this place have returned home from Akron, O., where they had gone to attend the funeral of the former's brother, O. J. Blackstone. It will be remembered that Mr. Blackstone met death on the railroad near Pittsburg, June 12. He was working for the B. & O. serving as a flagman. At the time he was killed it was reported that his head was severed from the body, but this was an error. He was badly cut and bruised, but no limbs were cut off. Mr. Blackstone desires to thank the members of the B. & O. for the kindness which they extended him during his hour of trouble. The members from Connellsville attended the funeral.

Mrs. Jacob Harshman was among those who were in Connellsville yesterday on a little shopping expedition. Joseph Strickler, a prosperous farmer of Franklin township, was in Greensburg recently on a mission of business.

The Biggest Kind of a Change that Ever Happened to Any Magazine Has Happened This Month to

THE SCRAP BOOK

THE SCRAP BOOK for July is issued in two sections—two complete magazines, each with its own cover and its own table of contents. One of these sections is an ALL-ILLUSTRATED magazine; the other is an ALL-FICTION magazine. Each is a mammoth magazine in itself. The one presents an overwhelming array of human interest articles and illustrations; the other an enormous tonnage of fiction—160 pages of absorbing stories.

Ten years ago I created a new type of magazine—the ALL-FICTION magazine. Now I am creating another distinct type—the ALL-ILLUSTRATED magazine. This is the age of specialization. The conventional magazine, with its smattering of illustrations and its smattering of fiction and its smattering of special articles, doesn't contain enough of any one thing to make it satisfying. The ALL-FICTION magazine and the ALL-ILLUSTRATED magazine, joined together in a unit, strengthen each other, and make something really big and powerful and convincing.

The Only Way to Know a Thing is to Try It

The two-section magazine idea is brand-new to the world. It is not quite new with me, however, as I have given it, at odd times, four or five years of thought. It first came into my mind in response to a desire to couple, in some way, the strength of the all-fiction magazine with the illustrated features of the conventional magazine. It has been a difficult problem to work out. Now that the idea is perfected, I wish to see what there is in it. It looks to me to be very good, but the only way to know a thing is to try it.

Two Magazines for a Quarter—Easy Money

The price of this two-part magazine is twenty-five cents, which is equal to twelve and one-half cents a magazine. Most magazines were selling at ten cents have been advanced to fifteen cents. THE SCRAP BOOK in two parts means two magazines for twenty-five cents against thirty cents for two fifteen cent magazines.

A Cigar Wrapper Often Covers a Multitude of Sins

You know quite well that there are many cigars sold for five cents that are very poor quality. They are sold on appearance. A fine appearing wrapper, a handsome gold band or a pretty box-lid may cover a multitude of sins, but it is the filler, the inside of a cigar, that determines its smoking quality.

Modern manufacture exemplified in the American Cigar Company's products has grown way above this unfortunate method of doing business and assures a cigar that is honest all through.

The "Triangle A" merit mark on a box of cigars means that every sprig of leaf in every cigar in the box was graded especially by experts for that one brand, two years before it was made; that during this time the leaf has mellowed in great, clean warehouses in a perfect temperature till all its finest qualities are brought to a point of perfection.

These are some of the reasons why "Triangle A" cigars smoke with the fine mellow flavor that you thought was only to be found in expensive brands; why every "Triangle A" cigar has an even flavor and aroma from end to end; why every cigar of each "Triangle A" brand smokes just the same.

"Triangle A" cigars cost you no more than the "mixed" cigars—though they are worth twice as much.

Look for the "A" (Triangle A) when you buy cigars.

"Triangle A" brands offer the widest obtainable range of choice, and absolutely dependable quality in whatever brand suits your taste. You'll never find a better brand to make the test with than

The New CREMO

Every box is now extra-wrapped in glassine paper, sealed at each end with the "Triangle A" in red. The cigars are kept clean, fresh and in perfect smoking condition until the box is opened.

MURDER IN THE FIRST DEGREE.

The verdict in the Cate case was the unwilling expression of twelve men of moral courage. Their pronouncement means death to the defendant. The taking of human life, even in justification of law and in defense of society, is a painful duty which is too often shirked by jurors. Under a merciful law, the prisoner is permitted the benefit of all doubts as to the measure of his guilt, or of his guilt in any sense, and many jurors permit their terror of the consequences to rule the justice of their action in passing judgment.

The evidence in the Cate case showed that the prisoner had made threats against the life of his victim immediately previous to the desperate and fatal encounter between them; these threats were reasonable and legal evidence of premeditation; and premeditation and deliberation are elements of murder in the first degree.

But for those threats it might have been urged in Cate's defense that the killing was in the heat of passion, and that the grade of crime was thereby reduced to murder in the second degree, or to manslaughter.

The defense was necessarily reduced to the extremity of relying upon the plea of insanity to save their client from the awful consequences of his deed. The average jury is too hard-headed and too nervous to recognize emotional insanity as a sane defense, or to even fully realize what it means.

Besides, the plea has been much abused. The wide differences of experts and the large fees paid to them by wealthy clients have prejudiced the public mind against them so that their testimony no longer carries the weight it once did when experts were rare and their compensation not a matter of commercial importance. The physicians who testified in the Cate case were no doubt honest in their convictions, but the jury did not apparently accord their testimony any serious consideration.

It is seldom that the extreme penalty of the law is exacted in the State of Pennsylvania, for the reason that it must be shown that a rational being in full possession of his senses, able to distinguish right from wrong, has deliberately and premeditatedly "in cold blood," taken the life of another.

For murders are so committed, and fewer can be so proven. Personal encounters are responsible for most killings. In these cases hot blood is presumed or is easily proven, and the penalty is reduced from death to imprisonment.

The wisdom of the law's policy has been much disputed, but it has never been disturbed, hence we may conclude that it correctly reflects public opinion, which still holds to the humanity of the law rather than to its vengeance, to the quality of mercy tempered with justice rather than to the stern decrees of the Mosiac law.

It is nevertheless evident that the latter is a more powerful criminal deterrent than the former, and if William L. Cate is made to expiate on the gallows the crime of killing Thomas L. Cress the terror of the law will be intensified anew and in like ratio will its effectiveness be strengthened.

MUD ISLAND INVASIONS OF UNIONTOWN.

"Every time The Herald bluffs a certain Conneltsville newspaper there is a suspicious invasion of Uniontown by some Mud Island editors," says our suspicious contemporary.

The editor of this paper was in Uniontown yesterday and among other friends whom he met and talked with was Senator Crow. A few days before we were in Uniontown and talked with Congressman Cooper. On both occasions we called at The Herald office. The editor was out. He hadn't been seen. We had no gun. Under all the circumstances, we submit that we have been strictly impartial in the distribution of courtesies.

We assure our troubled contemporary that neither our visits to Uniontown nor our conversations with the eminent men of the party there have had any sinister purposes or even any premeditations, nor have they been due to any smarting sense of any "bluffs" we have received from any source.

As for the bluffs, bring 'em on. We eat bluffs!

The school audit indicates that there should be more instruction in the collection of outstanding taxes. We repeat what we have often said, that there is no reason why tax duplicates should not be settled up by every year within the year in which the tax is levied, especially in these piping times of prosperity.

DR. MARTIN'S SUIT

For Damages Growing Out of Markleton Sanitarium Suits.
ROCKWOOD, June 21.—Dr. John L. Martin, for a long time manager of the Markleton Hotel and Sanitarium, was at Somerset Tuesday afternoon, and through his attorneys, Harvey L. Miller of Pittsburgh, and Ruppel & Uhl of Somerset, he instituted two civil suits. One was an action against the hotel company for $20,000 damages, and the other a claim against Margaret B. Burnett, for $550.33.

In the suit against the hotel company, to which the name of M. S. Davis is linked, Dr. Martin bases his claim upon damages to his character and reputation, growing out of an arrest last winter when he was charged by the company with the larceny of a typewriter. The Doctor was arrested in February and was humiliated by being kept in the custody of the Sheriff for a period of 16 hours, when he gave bond for his appearance at court. When the case was tried the Doctor was found not guilty. The "larceny" amounted to this: Sheriff Begley levied upon certain property about the hotel, including the typewriter in question, and the machine had been transferred by Dr. Martin to another room after the levy had been made. The jury was not long in returning a verdict of not guilty.

The claim against Miss Burnett represents boarding, treatment, laundry, telephone, postal cards, etc.

From Westmoreland's County Seat.

GREENSBURG, June 21.—Professional Greensburg is all agog today over developments last night when Charles H. Bennett, a well known young man, was arrested on a charge of attempted criminal malpractice. The information was made by Justice of the Peace J. B. Small, a prominent resident of Southwest Greensburg, on information received from his daughter, Mabel, who a short time ago was married to Bennett after he had been arrested on another serious charge preferred by her. The present charge dates back to before the time of the marriage, and was brought mainly because Bennett refused to live with his wife. The physician named in the case went to Bennett's hall last night. A number of medical tablets will be analyzed for evidence in the case, which promises to be very sensational.

Irwin was aroused yesterday when Mrs. Bertha Wright Eppler, wife of Howard Eppler and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wright, died from the effects of a dose of corrosive sublimate taken Sunday morning. The parents deny that the poison was taken with suicidal intent. Last Friday the girl eloped with Eppler. She was 18 years old and very beautiful. They were married at Youngstown. The parents opposed the marriage. The couple returned, however, and were forgiven. The bride was apparently happy. Sunday she complained of a pain and went upstairs for something to relieve it. She then came running down stairs, screaming with pain. She then ran to a field and fell, writhing in agony. She was so badly burned by the powerful acid that her recovery was impossible. The coroner was notified of the case.

Patrolman Sam Hill, a new man on the local police force, got a severe lesson for recklessness yesterday. He was called to a house in East Greensburg, where a dog, supposed to be mad, was crouching. Hill tried to poke the dog out with his mace, and the animal bit a piece out of his arm at the wrist. The dog was later killed after a long chase. The wound was cauterized and the dog's head will be analyzed.

In order to allow employees of the Kelly & Jones Company a chance to see ball games, the local management of the West Penn Club has decided to play a number of twilight games. The first of these will be played with Butler this evening, beginning at 6 o'clock. The management think this will have a good effect on the attendance here.

The Tenth Regiment Band will make its first business trip to Greensburg tomorrow. It will stop here en route to Jeannette, where it has been hired to play for a big lot sale.

THE STORE THAT QUALITY BUILT

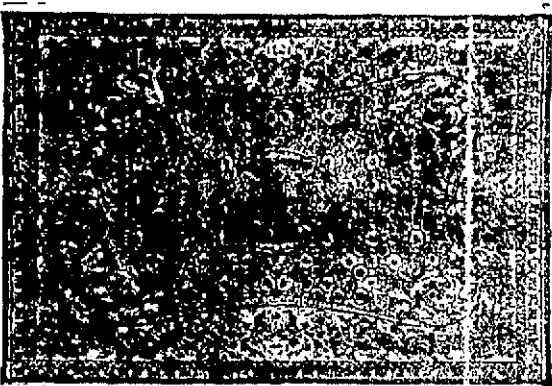

Begin life with a home

"WHILE I am away I wish you would go to AARON's and pick out that four-room outfit for George and Mary. We'll give it to them for a wedding present. We'll have it all ready for them when the knot is tied. It will be easy for us and make them happy. I like the Aaron plan because their payments are all in the future and their system is dignified and respectable. It's a great thing viewed from any standpoint. It's a mighty big advantage, too, for a young married couple to start life with an established home. Wish I had known of Aaron's when we were married."

Hundreds, yes, thousands of home outfits have been wedding presents, and there isn't anything more welcome or substantial. A little home all ready to step into--well, it's something our forefathers would have appreciated. June brides and grooms who have no one to look to for such presents can buy the outfits themselves, can open an account, get the benefits of the same fine system and be happy on the very threshold of their married life. No losses or embarrassments are possible by the Aaron plan. It was intended to help humanity, not to hinder it.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE.

By CHARLES KLEIN.

A Story of American Life Novelized From the Play by ARTHUR HORNBLLOW.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY.

Jefferson had read half a dozen reviews of it in as many American papers that afternoon at the New York Herald's reading room in the Avenue de l'Opera, and he chuckled with glee as he thought how accurately this young woman had described his father. The book had been published under the pseudonym "Shirley Green," and he alone had been admitted into the secret of authorship. The critics all conceded that it was the book of the year, and that it portrayed with a pitiless pen the personality of the biggest figure in the commercial life of America. "Although," wrote one reviewer, "the leading character in the book is given another name, there can be no doubt that the author has possibly have learned? There had been no disloyalty to his father in doing this. Jefferson admired his father's smartness, if he could not approve his methods. He did not consider the book an attack on his father, but rather a powerfully written picture of an extraordinary man.

The acquaintance of his son with the daughter of Judge Rosemore had not escaped the eagle eye of Ryder, Sr., and much to the daughter's annoyance and even consternation he had ascertained that Jefferson was a frequent caller at the Rosemore home. He immediately jumped to the conclusion that this could mean only one thing, and fearing what he termed "the consequences of the insanity of immature minds," he had summoned Jefferson peremptorily to his presence. He told his son that all idea of marriage in that quarter was out of the question for two reasons: One was that Judge Rosemore was his most bitter enemy, the other was that he had hoped to see his son, his destined successor, marry a woman of whom he, Ryder, Sr., could approve. He knew of such a woman, one who would make a far more desirable mate than Miss Rosemore. He alluded, of course, to Kate Roberts, the pretty daughter of his old friend, the senator. The alliance which would benefit by this alliance, which was desirable from every point of view.

Jefferson had listened respectfully until his father had finished and then grimly remarked that only one point of view had been overlooked—his own. He did not care for Miss Roberts, he did not think she really cared for him. The marriage was out of the question. Whereupon Ryder, Sr., had fumed and raged, declaring that Jefferson was opposing his will as he always did, and ending with the threat that if his son married Shirley Rosemore without his consent he would disinherit him.

Jefferson was cogitating on these incidents of the last few months when suddenly a feminine voice which he quickly recognized called out in English: "Hello! Mr. Ryder."

He looked up and saw two ladies, one young, the other middle aged, smiling at him from an open door which had drawn up to the curb. Jefferson jumped from his seat, upsetting his chair and starting two nervous Frenchmen in his hurry, and hastened out, hat in hand.

"Why, Miss Rosemore, what are you doing out driving?" he asked. "You know you and Mrs. Blake promised to dine with me tonight. I was coming round to the hotel in a few moments."

Mrs. Blake was a younger sister of Shirley's mother. Her husband had died a few years previously, leaving her a small income, and when she had heard of her niece's contemplated trip to Europe she had decided to come to Paris to meet her and incidentally to chaperon her. The two women were stopping at the Grand Hotel close by, while Jefferson had found accommodations at the Athenae.

Shirley explained. Her aunt wanted to go to the dressmaker's, and she herself was most anxious to go to the Luxembourg Gardens to hear the music. Would he take her? Then they could meet Mrs. Blake at the hotel at 7 o'clock and all go to dinner. Was he willing?

Mrs. Blake said she would get out here. Her dressmaker was close by, in the Rue Auber, and she would walk back to the hotel to meet them at 7 o'clock. Jefferson assisted her to alight and escorted her as far as the porte cochere of the hotel, a couple of doors away. When he returned to the carriage, Shirley had already told the coachman where to go. He got in, and the flared started.

"Now," said Shirley, "tell me what have been doing with yourself all afternoon?"

Jefferson was busily arranging the dead carriage rug about Shirley, sending more time in the task perhaps than was absolutely necessary, and she had to repeat the question.

"Doing?" he echoed, with a smile. "I've been doing two things—waiting impatiently for 7 o'clock and incidentally reading the notices of your book."

CHAPTER IV.
TELL me, what do the papers say?"

Settling herself comfortably back in the carriage Shirley questioned Jefferson with eagerness, even anxiety. She had been impatiently awaiting the arrival of the newspapers from "home," for so much depended on this first effort. She knew her book had been praised in some quarters, and her publishers had written her that the sales were bigger every day, but she was curious to learn how it had been received by the reviewers.

Shirley was not beautiful, but there was a face that never failed to attract attention. It was a thoughtful and interesting face, with an intellectual brow and large, expressive eyes, the face of a woman who had both brain power and ideas, and yet who, at the same time, was in perfect sympathy with the world. She was fair in complexion, and her fine brown eyes, alternately redolent and alert, were shaded by long dark lashes. Her eyebrows were delicately arched, and she had a good nose. She wore her hair well off the forehead, which was broader than in the average woman, suggesting good mentality. Her mouth, however, was her strongest feature. It was well shaped, but there were firm lines about it that suggested unusual will power. Yet it smiled readily, and when it did there was an agreeable vision of strong, healthy looking teeth of dazzling whiteness. She was a little over medium height and slender in figure and carried herself with that unmistakable air of well bred independence that bespeaks birth and culture. She dressed stylishly, and, while her gowns were of rich material and of a cut suggesting expensive modistes, she was always so quietly attired and in such perfect taste that after leaving her one could never recall what she had on.

"Tell me," she repeated, "what do the papers say about the book?"

"Say?" he echoed. "Why, simply that you've written the biggest book of the year, that's all!"

"Really? Oh, do tell me all they said!" She was fairly excited now, and in her enthusiasm she grasped Jefferson's broad, sunburnt hand which was lying outside the carriage rug. He tried to appear unconscious of the contact, which made his every nerve tingle, as he proceeded to tell her the gist of the reviews he had read that afternoon.

"Isn't that splendid?" she exclaimed when he had finished. Then she added quickly: "I wonder if your father has seen it?"

Jefferson grinned. He had something on his conscience, and this was a good opportunity to get rid of it. He replied ironically: "He probably has read it by this time. I sent him a copy myself."

The instant the words were out of his mouth he was sorry, for Shirley's face had changed color.

"You sent him a copy of 'The American Octopus'?" she cried. "Then he'll guess who wrote the book."

"Oh, no, he won't," rejoined Jefferson calmly. "He has no idea who sent it to him. I mailed it anonymously."

Shirley breathed a sigh of relief. It was so important that her identity should remain a secret. As daughter of a supreme court judge she had to be most careful. She would not embarrass her father for anything in the world.

Suddenly Jefferson asked her: "Have you heard from home recently?"

"I had a letter from father last week. Everything was going on at home as when I left. Father says he misses me sadly and that mother is ailing, as usual."

She smiled, and Jefferson smiled too. They both knew by experience that nothing really serious ailed Mrs. Rosemore, who was a good deal of a hypochondriac and always so filled with aches and pains that on the few occasions when she really felt well she was genuinely alarmed.

The cab stopped suddenly in front of beautiful gilded gates. It was the Luxembourg, and through the tall railings they caught a glimpse of well-kept lawns, splashing fountains and richly dressed children playing. From the distance came the stirring strains of a brass band.

The coachman drove up to the curb, and Jefferson jumped down, assisting Shirley to alight.

They entered the gardens, following the sweet scented paths until they came to where the music was. The band of an infantry regiment was playing, and a large crowd had gathered. Many people were sitting on the chairs provided for visitors for the modest fee of two sous, others were promissory round and round a great circle having the musicians in its center. The dense foliage of the trees overhead afforded a perfect shelter from the hot rays of the sun, and the place was so lovely and interesting, so cool and so full of sweet perfumes and sounds, appealing to and satisfying the senses, that Shirley wished they had more time to spend there.

"Isn't it delightful here?" said she. "I could stay here forever, couldn't you?"

"With you—yes," answered Jefferson with a significant smile.

Shirley tried to look angry. She strictly discouraged these convention-

Beautiful Hair At Small Cost.

WITHIN the last decade great and rapid strides have been made in Materia Medica. Many diseases that were considered incurable fifteen years ago are now cured in a few days, and in many cases prevented altogether. The scientists of late years have been delving for the cause, the foundation, the reason and the starting point of disease, fully realizing that the actual and true cause must be ascertained before the remedy can be located. Hair troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp, and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention if results are to be expected. It would do no earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment, and when baldness occurs the scalp has simply lost all of its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon (a plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions).

The natural and logical thing to do in either case is, feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is identical with the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp. It feeds and nourishes the hair and does all the work originally carried on by the natural nutrients or life-giving juices generated by the scalp itself. It penetrates the pores of the scalp quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities.

One twenty-five-cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself. Now on sale at every drug and toilet store in the land. Three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00.

al, sentimental speeches which constantly flung her next in her face.

"Now, you know I don't like you to talk that way, Mr. Ryder. It's most undignified. Please be sensible."

Quite subdued, Jefferson relapsed into a sulky silence. Presently he said:

"I wish you wouldn't call me Mr. Ryder. I meant to ask you this before. You know very well that you're no great lover for the name, and if you persist you'll end by including me in your hatred of the hero of your book."

Shirley looked at him with amused curiosity.

"What do you mean," she asked. "What do you want me to call you?"

"Oh, I don't know," he stammered, rather intimidated by this self possessed young woman, who looked him calmly through and through. "Why not call me Jefferson? Mr. Ryder is so formal."

Shirley laughed outright, a merry, unstrained laugh of honest laughter, which made the passerby turn their heads and smile, too, commenting to the white on the stylish appearance of the two Americans whom they took for sweethearts. After all, reasoned Shirley, he was right. They had been together now nearly every hour in the day for over a month. It was absurd to call him Mr. Ryder. So, addressing him with mock gravity, she said:

"You're right, Mr. Ryder—I mean Jefferson. You're quite right. You are Jefferson from this time on, only remember—here she shook her gloved finger at him was thinly—"I told you before you said it. No more sentimental speeches as you made just now."

Jefferson beamed. He felt at least two inches taller, and at that moment he would not have changed places with any one in the world. To hide the embarrassment of his gratification caused him he pulled out his watch and exclaimed:

"Why, it's a quarter past six. We shall have all we can do to get back to the hotel and dress for dinner."

Shirley rose at once, although loath to leave.

"I had no idea it was so late," she said. "How the time flies!" Then, mockingly she added, "Come, Jefferson, be a good boy and find a cab."

They passed out of the gardens by the gate facing the Theatre de l'Odéon, where there was a long sitting of fencers for three. They got into one, and in fifteen minutes they were back at the Grand Hotel.

At the office they told Shirley that her aunt had already come in and gone to her room, so she hurried upstairs to dress for dinner, while Jefferson proceeded to the Hotel de l'Athenae on the same mission. He had still twenty-five minutes before dinner time, and he needed only ten minutes for a wash and to jump into his dress suit, so, instead of going directly to his hotel, he sat down at the Cafe de la Paix. He was thirsty, and, sitting for a vermouth frappe he told the garçon to bring him the American papers.

The waiter came with the vermouth and the newspapers. All he could find were the London Times, which he pronounced "Two-mys," and some issues of the New York Herald. The papers were really a month old, but he did not care for that. Jefferson idly turned over the pages of the Herald. His then, his were still running on Shirley, and it was paying little attention to what he was reading. Suddenly, however, his eyes rested on a headline which made him sit up with a start. It read as follows:

"Judge Rosemore Impeached—Justice of the Supreme Court to Be Tried On Rebry Charge."

The dispatch, which was dated Washington two weeks back, went on to say that serious charges affecting the integrity of Judge Rosemore had been made the subject of congressional inquiry and that the result of the inquiry was so grave that a demand for impeachment would be at once sent to the senate. It added that the charges grew out of the recent decision in the Great Northwestern Mining company case, it being alleged that Judge Rosemore had accepted a large sum of money on condition of his handing down a decision favorable to the company.

Jefferson was thunderstruck. He read the dispatch over again to make sure there was no mistake. No, it was very plain—Judge Rosemore of Madison avenue. But how preposterous, what a calumny! He paid for his vermouth and hurried away to his hotel to dress.

It was just striking 7 when he re-entered the courtyard of the Grand Hotel. Shirley and Mrs. Blake were waiting for him.

"They drove up the stately Champs Elysees, past the monumental Arc de Triomphe and from there down to the Role. All were singularly quiet. Mrs. Blake was worrying about her new gown, Shirley was tired, and Jefferson could not banish from his mind the terrible news he had just read. He avoided looking at Shirley until the latter noticed it and thought she must have offended him in some way. She was more sorry than she would have him know, for with all her apparent coldness Jefferson was rapidly becoming very indispensable to her happiness.
